University District Public Development Authority (UDPDA) Meeting Minutes - DRAFT

Wednesday, March 4, 2026, 3:31-4:50 PM, Catalyst Building Room 309 and Via Zoom

Board slide deck, Zoom recording link

Board Members Present: Lois Bollenback (chair), Megan Hulsey (Zoom), Steve MacDonald (joined after the Executive Session), Juliet Sinisterra (CEO), Dennis Wagner (Zoom), County Commissioner Amber Waldref (Zoom), and Council President Betsy Wilkerson (joined after the Executive Session)

Others Present: Taudd Hume (legal counsel), Alden Jones

Call to Order, Welcome, and Executive Session

Chair Bollenback called the meeting to order at 3:31 PM and announced that the UDPDA would move into an Executive Session citing RCW 42.30.110 (1) (i) to discuss “Potential litigation” meaning litigation that has been specifically threatened to which the agency, the governing body, or a member acting in an official capacity is, or is likely to become, a party; or the agency reasonably believes may be commenced by or against the agency, the governing body, or a member acting in an official capacity. Bollenback noted a conflict of interest had been identified for two board members (MacDonald and CP Wilkerson) who did not join the Executive Session. She also stated that members joining the Executive Session will use the Zoom link provided for this purpose. She then announced that the Executive Session was set for 20 minutes, and noted that it was starting at 3:33 and would conclude at 3:53 PM. It was later announced that the time had been extended to 4:04 PM.

Resumption of Public Meeting

Bollenback adjourned the Executive Session and resumed the Public Meeting at 4:06 PM (MacDonald and CP Wilkerson joined the meeting at this time). Bollenback asked for a MOTION to approve the Consent Agenda consisting of the February 4, 2026, draft UDPDA meeting minutes and the UDPDA financials as of January 31, 2026 (Wilkerson), seconded (Waldref), and passed unanimously.

Finance and Grants Administration

SAO Accountability Audit

Hulsey provided a recap of the UDPDA’s Accountability Audit Exit Conference with the SAO’s office for audit years 2022, 2023, and 2024. The exit “management letter” noted the need for improved controls (per BARS 3.8.11) over electronic payments in light of the 2025 fraud incident. Hulsey complimented Sinisterra and Jones for their work on the audit.

UDPDA Fiscal Policies and Procedures Manual

Hulsey and Chuck Murphy (past UDPDA treasurer) reviewed the staff-drafted manual for errors and omissions. The manual is a “living” document and includes language addressing issues noted in the SAO audit management letter, as well as policies and procedures to clarify internal controls, mitigate fraud, safeguard funds, manage grants, and establish procurement pathways. Bollenback asked for questions and hearing none, asked for a MOTION to adopt the UDPDA Fiscal Policies and Procedures Manual (Wilkerson), seconded (Wagner), and passed unanimously.

JOINT PRESENTATION/DISCUSSION: UDPDA and UDDA Board Members

Bollenback started the joint session at 4:11 PM and provided the following EAC Highlights:

- Letters sent out regarding Avista’s four-year rate increase, the Ruby River dock proposal, and EWU’s Urban Regional Planning program
- DocuSign for board Confidentiality and COI policies going out soon
- Annual UDDA board member contribution invoices going out soon
- The UDPDA/UDDA Administrative Services Agreement will be updated to account for work beyond basic operational administration (i.e., for more in-depth grants and contract management)

- Presentation: City Parking Lot Tax Legislation

Next Generation Plan 2065 Updates

- 201 West Main – Property closing date is April 2, 2026. UD legal counsel reviewed the PSA Assignment and Feasibility approval, and per the PSA, the CEO approved in writing.
- 400-Block Gateway Commons – Sinisterra reported that Avista recently shared a change in direction, and as such, the anticipated RFQ for a P3 at the Gateway Commons is on hold. Avista is now considering fast-charging Tesla stations, and remains open to a climbing gym, recreation and events center, childcare, and a park and promenade. They are in discussions with Swinerton regarding the revised scope and will take 60 days to determine the best way to move forward. UD staff provided Avista with a revised program/proforma based on their new direction.
- Scorecard – Sinisterra highlighted Spokane Low Income Housing and Spokane Alliance efforts to launch a local revolving housing loan fund and the potential to work with the Ballmer Group on a statewide revolving loan fund.

Presentation

- UD Ecological Development Incentives – Measure Meant team presented an update on their contracted work, and Sinisterra explained how it dovetails with other Next Generation Plan 2065 projects. Mark Odegard provided a project overview, interview scope, case studies, common incentives in other communities, and key features of a “scorecard” and potential incentives. See this link for more information.

Bollenback asked for, but did not hear any public comments, and adjourned the meeting at 4:50 PM.

Dennis Wagner, Vice Chair and Secretary

Planning for the Spokane University District's Equitable Energy Future Moves Forward with Washington State Department of Commerce and Avista Utilities Support

SPOKANE, WA — April 8, 2026 — The Spokane University District (UD) is launching a major initiative to advance affordable, reliable, and clean energy solutions for the district and surrounding neighborhoods through a new feasibility study titled Planning for the Spokane University District's Equitable Energy Future. With critical support from the Washington State Department of Commerce and Avista Utilities, the project will explore the viability of a district-scale clean energy system that can reduce reliance on fossil fuels, lower long-term energy costs, and improve community health outcomes.

The Department of Commerce is providing 80 percent of the total feasibility study funding, totaling $343,000, enabling the University District and its partners to move forward with the technical analysis and community engagement needed to develop an actionable roadmap for clean energy development. This investment is essential to ensuring the study is comprehensive, rigorous, and centered on the needs of residents and businesses in one of Washington's most economically disadvantaged and environmentally overburdened communities.

"Planning for the Spokane University District's Equitable Energy Future is a critical step toward delivering affordable, clean, and community-centered energy in one of Washington's most economically and environmentally overburdened areas," says Spokane UD CEO Juliet Sinisterra. "Support from both the Washington State Department of Commerce and Avista Utilities is essential to advancing this work, enabling rigorous technical analysis, meaningful community engagement, and a clear path through permitting and implementation."

The Spokane University District is home to major educational and innovation-focused institutions, including Gonzaga University, the UW-GU Health Partnership, Washington State University Health Sciences Spokane, Eastern Washington University, the Catalyst Building, and the Scott Morris Center for Energy Innovation. However, the district also includes neighborhoods historically impacted by disinvestment, redlining, and the long-term environmental burdens of major transportation infrastructure. Many residents experience higher health risks due to poor air quality and urban heat island effects, and rising energy costs have increased financial strain on low-income households and small businesses—especially during extreme heat and wildfire smoke events that are becoming more frequent due to climate change.

This feasibility study will evaluate the potential for a district-scale thermal energy network and other clean energy solutions that can provide stable, affordable heating and cooling while reducing greenhouse gas emissions. Technical work will include reviewing existing conditions, including geology, groundwater, and infrastructure constraints; mapping thermal opportunities through GIS analysis; and evaluating energy sources, such as institutional waste heat.

In addition to technical modeling, the project will assess regulatory, environmental, and permitting pathways, including SEPA considerations, right-of-way constraints, and groundwater permitting requirements. Financial feasibility will also be evaluated, including analyses of capital and operating costs, potential rate structures, and ownership models such as public–public cooperative ownership. The goal is to provide decision-makers with clear, board-ready documentation and a realistic implementation roadmap that identifies near-term opportunities and long-term development pathways.

A central component of the project is community engagement and outreach, which will ensure public understanding, transparency, and meaningful participation throughout the study. Public engagement activities will include ongoing stakeholder meetings, targeted outreach to community organizations, surveys, and at least one public open house where community members can review technical findings and provide input on future clean energy development options. All engagement outcomes will be documented and shared publicly through project and partner websites and social media.

By reducing barriers to clean energy permitting and siting, this project will position the Spokane University District to advance a multi-benefit clean energy system that improves local air quality, increases climate resilience, and supports long-term economic opportunity. The feasibility study will also help lay the groundwork for workforce development and training opportunities in clean energy, with potential for apprenticeships and pathways into green jobs that directly benefit disadvantaged communities.

“This study will position the University District and surrounding neighborhoods with new ways to reduce energy costs, improve air quality, build climate resilience, and attract investment and economic development for the community,” notes Steve MacDonald, Director of Community and Economic Development at the City of Spokane.

The Spokane University District and its partners are committed to ensuring that future energy planning is community-driven, equitable, and aligned with state climate goals. The project reflects a shared vision of a cleaner, healthier, and more resilient district that supports innovation and delivers tangible benefits to the people who live and work in the University District every day.
